

HILL CANNON

consulting civil and structural engineers

With a reputation for innovation and quality, Hill Cannon deliver consulting engineering services from inception to completion for all disciplines in the fields of building, civil and structural engineering.

With a broad, multidisciplinary team our expertise ensures we deliver imaginative, technically excellent solutions for your project needs, budget and time requirements.

Connecting structure and architecture with practical and innovative engineering solutions, we establish the most efficient, cost effective designs that maximise the use of available space.

From new developments, renovations and improvements, to re-fitting, relocations and upgrading works, we take the time to understand your requirements, the technical challenges of site and the potential of the scheme.

Our work spans the requirements of small individual projects, requiring an understanding, personal approach, to large scale, multi-million pound schemes requiring comprehensive client contact and project management.

Our professional services are available for prime agents, clients on a direct basis or as part of your design team, when engineering support is required. We act as advisers when expert or specialist knowledge is required and always appoint a senior person to lead your project, ensuring continuity and the highest levels of service. Our team are pro-active and innovative and committed to delivering a solution that is right for you.

Our services include:

- Due diligence
- Economic feasibility
- Expert witness
- Failure investigation
